RENED Project Management Certification was more scratching a skill itch than a certification path. Now everything can be managed as a project

I chose AASTU for my higher education. Chose Civil Engineering for the passion. One of the complicated projects is construction.

The MBA. The MBA. The MBA. Masters is no fun. Masters is to focus skills and become a laser saber.

I function at Efuye Gela as a general person of Competence. The company itself is structured so that competence is much valued. Being Part of the community rather than the workspace is the primary task of anyone who has lifted a finger at Efuye Gela

Worked there as a fledgling under the command of Abel Tefera, who drills efficiency into the minds of anyone he meets.

Program officer for 5 months. Early exit because i felt suffocated in a never ending beaurocracy

Program Lead for 8 months till i finally quit to find a place where i can invest my time wihtout regret

Wanted the “Vice President of Education” Position, got the PR instead; maybe next year. But till then, ill play my part of Social Media Management (with secret president of Education on the side).

Rotaract is the place where i test my leadership and management skills managing volunteer activities with good-willed individuals so we can see more flowers and breath fresher air
